McCann wanted to know what $100,000 and Harrington said to fight the divorce suit his wife was going to bring.

McCann told him he need not borrow the $100,000, as he had a home that cost him nothing, and if he needed money to carry him along until the pension was due he would advance it.

Several of the 13 members of the board felt the effects of the unwholesome lunch before the adjournment Tuesday afternoon.

Several were from the daily shipment received the night before and were all right as far as he could tell.

Secretary Walter B. Stevens of the World's Fair spent an interesting quarter of an hour with the officers of the Board of Lady Managers at the close of their meeting Tuesday afternoon, explaining a report that had been sent to the Board of Lady Managers from his office.

Mr. McMechen was one of twenty who lunched at the Administration building at the time the members of the board were at luncheon. He, with others, did not like the looks of the oysters, and he ate but one.

He had hardly completed his luncheon

The report contained an account of the postage used in sending out mail for the office of the Board of Lady Managers, and is similar to the kind sent to each department of the World's Fair.

The account was supposed to be a bill by the lady managers.

As the illness grew intense, he ran to the hospital, where Dr. Sheets administered

They showed him the bill and asked for an explanation. When Secretary Stevens explained that the supposed bill was only a report and called for no expenditure of cash whatever from the Board of Lady Managers they were satisfied.

Dr. Sheets says Mr. McMechen's illness was undoubtedly due to the oyster.

MADISON POOLROOM WRECKS HIS HONOR

Secretary of East St. Louis Packing Trades Council Confesses to Embezzlement.

LOSINGS EXCEEDED SALARY

Organization's Funds Also Went Into Strong Box of the Gambling Promoters.

Another life-wreck has been added to the long list caused by the Madison poolroom. Wednesday morning Patrick Hayes, of East St. Louis, treasurer of the Packing Trades Council, was arrested on the charge of embezzling $200 of the council funds.

He confessed to the police that he lost all his salary at the poolroom, took the council's money in the hope of regaining his losses, and saw it go with the rest into the bookmakers' strong box.

Hayes was arrested at his home, 124 Daugherty avenue. The complaint against him was made by William Owens, president of the Packing Trades Council. Hayes gave bond for $500. His preliminary hearing is set for Friday morning.

Hayes is 24 years old, without a family, and, according to his acquaintances, without any bad habits, except the recently acquired one of "playing the races" at the Madison poolroom.

It is expected that his friends will come to his assistance and that the shortage will be straightened up. Hayes is well connected in East St. Louis.

Train Moves Ahead, Decapitating Electrician Who Was Doing Repair Work Under a Car.

Working beneath a railroad coach, repairing a break in the electrical apparatus, William H. Hueselman lost his life from the carelessness of a number of the train crew. The cars moved forward without Hueselman being properly warned, and the wheels severed his head from his body. The accident occurred in the Missouri Pacific yards near Compton avenue. It was past midnight, and Hueselman had been forgotten in his dangerous position. The remains were removed to his home, 5275 Arsenal street.

STEAL THREE AUTO LAMPS

Are Taken From Machine and Returned Before Owner Knew It.

Three automobile lamps stolen from a machine belonging to A. L. Dyke at his home, 317 Locust street, at 10 o'clock in the morning, were recovered. The thieves arrested and the owner notified before he knew that the lamps had been stolen. Detectives Antin and Sines are credited with the capture. Mr. Dyke says the first he knew of the lamps being stolen was when his wife told him of the appearance at the house of the two detectives with the robbers and a request that he call at the Four Courts and identify the property and announce whether he would prosecute.

Joe Haynes and Henry Burke, negroes, were caught by the two detectives at Tenth and Pine streets with two of the lamps, valued at $20 each, evidently trying to sell them. The men confessed, and said that the other lamp was in the basement at 320 Locust street. They were taken to that number and the lamp found.

INSURANCE UNION IS UPHELD

Attorney-General of Illinois Will Appeal From Decision Sustaining Rate Agreement.

Attorney-General Hamilton of Illinois has given notice that he will appeal from the decision of Judge E. R. Burroughs in the Belleville circuit court, sustaining the rate agreement of 110 of the large insurance companies under what is known as the "Western Fire Insurance Union." The ground that fire insurance is not in the legal sense a necessity, against which the trust laws of Illinois are directed.

The suit to enjoin the companies from doing business in Illinois was brought on a report of District Inspector M. J. Went almost a year ago, his allegation being that the rate agreement was a violation of the trust laws.

The case was argued in the Belleville circuit court several months ago and taken under advisement. It was regarded as a test case both by state officials and the insurance attorneys.

The decision, rendered Tuesday afternoon, rests entirely upon the question what are necessities, as designated by the anti-trust laws.

POST-DISPATCH PATTERNS

Ladies' Shirt Waist Costumes

Nos. 6071-6097—

The shirt-waist modes have supplanted all others for general wear, and whether the demand for new designs brings the supply or the prevalence of the attractive modes causes the popularity is a question, but certain it is, that both supply and demand are on the increase.

In the attractive design shown here, the smart bertha is a characteristic feature. The waist has three outward turning pleats in front and back. The front is cut out in chemise style and is worn with a shield which may be of lace or any preferred material. The unique bertha gives the long shoulder line and may be fastened with buttons, if preferred. The waist closes at the left side of the front. A belt of the material should include a large buckle at the back as well as the front. The sleeves are the regular bishop shaping.

The skirt is the popular circular shaping with two deep tucks at the lower edge and lengthened by a graduated flounce. The upper part of the skirt is fitted by darts and the fullness in the back is disposed of by an inverted pleat. A practical development may be made of black and white shepherd's check in silk or wool, or of dotted foulard, using plain colored material for the bertha and foundation under the wide flounce. A pretty way to treat the bertha is to make it of same material as the dress and finish the outer edge with braid or bias bands. For a neat and simple suit that has much style to it, this is an exceptional design. Made up in any of the season's suitings, the result will be most pleasing.

Sizes for Waist No. 6071—32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Goods required for 36-inch bust, 5 yards, 27 inches wide.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.
Mercedes Gurb, a dressmaker's assistant, is mistaken by a young man named Fairleigh for his wife, whom she really resembles. Fairleigh knows Mercedes. His wife refuses to believe his explanation and goes home to her father, Mr. Stocum. Henry Harrington, a former day laborer, has inherited a great fortune, which would have gone to one Helen Bell, Mrs. Fairleigh's aunt, had it not been learned that the Bell woman had died in childhood at a boarding asylum. Dorothy Kerr, whose brother Claude is dead in Harrington's debt, informs Harrington that this aunt is living and threatens to publish this fact and thus deprive Harrington of his fortune unless he will consent to marry her. She gives him a week in which to decide. Dorothy gives Mr. Stocum some papers to put in his safe for her. She tells Harrington they are the proofs that this aunt is still alive. Harrington knows Fairleigh to steal the papers for him. Harrington goes to Mercedes' office. She tells him that a duplicate set of the founding asylum's documents were kept in a secret cabinet at that institution. She was once an inmate of the asylum and knows the location of the cabinet and offers to accompany Harrington to the now deserted asylum building and search for them in order to see if Helen Bell's death is recorded there. Old Mr. Stocum, on going to put some papers in his safe late that night surprises a thief trying to open the safe.

CHAPTER VI.
Facing a Murder Charge.
THE proofs about for aid brought quick response.
A dozen queries from hysterical servants filled the room, but a hush fell as Mrs. Fairleigh, a light lounging robe thrown on hastily over her nightgown, entered, ran forward and threw herself on her knees beside her father's body, begging him to speak to her—to look at her.
The priest lifted her to her feet, sending a frightened servant for a doctor as he did so.
"Who did it, uncle? Who struck him down?" whispered May Fairleigh.
"I cannot say," answered the priest, his voice stifled and faint.
"O, if my husband were only here!" she wailed. "Why did I leave him! Why't you please have him sent for, uncle?"
A word from the priest, and another servant left the house in haste, just as the hurriedly-summoned doctor arrived.
A hasty examination proved that life was not yet extinct.
The housekeeper, available woman, of the grenadier type, bustled forward.
"I was first in the room, doctor," she exclaimed. "I had the toothache, and I couldn't sleep, and I'd just got up to take some sleeping powders when I hear his reverence's voice calling 'Help!' Just like that. 'Help!' says he, and"—
"That will do, Mrs. Schurz," interposed the doctor; "we can hear your testimony later. Just now we've other work on hand."
He returned to his patient.
A young girl who had been bending over the body and who relinquished her place to the doctor gave a little cry and ran across the room, where she stooped down and picked up something from the floor near the open window.
It was a short steel bar, and it bore marks which clearly proved it to be the weapon with which Stocum had been struck.
The finder was Blanche Stocum, Mrs. Fairleigh's schoolgirl sister, a pretty, peevish girl whose dainty head was crowned by a halo of fluffy golden hair.
She brought the gruesome weapon across to Father Tom, handling it gingerly, and handed it to him.
With a shudder of repulsion the priest recognized it as the bar the assassin had dropped before rushing forward to make confession.
Dr. Crewe meantime was directing two man servants to carry the dying man to the couch in the adjoining library.

Scarcely had the limp body been laid there when the door was flung open and Fairleigh rushed in.
"What is it?" he asked, his eyes roving saw a blaze of light, and, knowing what early hours Mr. Stocum's household keeps, I feared something might be the matter. I found the front door ajar and—

He broke off short at sight of the bath-room on the lounge.
"Your father?" he cried to May. "What has happened to him?"
"Hush!" cautioned the doctor. "He is regaining consciousness."
They crowded about the couch.
Stocum's eyelids flickered, then opened.
"Father!" whispered May, kneeling to catch his words.
The dying man's lips moved in silence. May bent her ear close to them.
"Mr. Stocum," said the doctor, "who was your assailant?"
The old man's glowing eyes roved wildly about the circle of faces, settling at last on his son-in-law.
Then he looked back at his daughter and with a final effort he forced some incoherent words through his pallid lips.
"What he said was inaudible to those who stood about him."
May, however, whose face was close to his and who listened with straining ears, caught one word.
The word was "Fairleigh!"
With a moan she fell like some stricken animal to the floor.
Her husband tried to lift her, but she repulsed him.
"Speak again!" pleaded Mrs. Schurz, leaning over the lounge. "We couldn't hear what you said. Who was it that killed you, sir?"
"Be quiet," ordered Blanche Stocum. "Is he worse, doctor?"
For the physician had again pressed forward to the couch, waving back the crowding servants and relatives.
"Is he worse?" repeated Blanche.
"He is dead!" replied Dr. Crewe solemnly. "And the name of his assailant died with him."
Fairleigh led his weeping wife into the adjoining room. She submitted lethargically to his guiding arm.
When they were alone he said gently: "Darling, this is a terrible blow for you; but if it draws us together again after all our misunderstandings and miseries, doubts we!"
His words brought her to her senses. Violently she repulsed him, a look of loathing sweeping over her face.
At her expression of revulsion he recoiled.
"Your nerves are gone to pieces," he began. "You must rest. I!"
"Don't touch me!" she gasped, shrinking back from his caressing hand. "Murderer!"
"What?"
"Murderer. You killed my father. With his latest breath he denounced you!"
"Me? Denounced me?"
"Yes!" she panted. "You! And just as I was beginning to believe in you and trust you again. He was wiser than I in his estimate of you. For the sake of the love I once bore you I shall keep your secret, but never speak to me—never look at me—never cross my path again or I shall denounce you as the murderer of my father. Now go!"
Dumb, thunderstruck, cowed, he turned on his heel and walked swiftly from the house.
May Fairleigh stood for a full minute looking after him.
Then with a cry of utter despair, she fell senseless to the floor.

THEY ALL PROPOSED TO YOUNG MEN

MISS LILLIE POLSON.

SAINT'S NAME MUST SUFFICE

The selection for the line of march for the St. Patrick's day parade brought forth a spirited discussion at the meeting of the Parade Union Tuesday night, but the route selected by Father Daniel W. Clarke was adopted on a majority vote of the parish representatives in spite of the remonstrances of the representatives of the St. Patrick's parish that their parish should be in the line of the parade in honor of their patron saint.
The route will be: Forming at Market and Twelfth streets at 2 o'clock, north to Washington avenue, west to Fifteenth street, south to Locust, west to Theresa, south to Lindell, west to Kenrick square, around the square and east on Lindell to Grand, where it will disband.
The meeting was held in St. Teresa's School hall Tuesday night, and an additional assessment of $5 was voted upon each parish for general expenses.
It was expected that at least 10,000 men will be in line. St. Teresa's parish will have the first position, following the police and the grand marshal and his staff.
Aside from the parish divisions there will be delegations from the uniformed Catholic societies. Police regulations include a policeman at each crossing.

The Question Now Is, "Will There Be Seven Weddings Announced Soon in East St. Louis or Were the Girls Only Fooling?"

Seven young women knelt before seven young men in the First Presbyterian Church, East St. Louis, on the night of leap-year day, pled softly and persuasively with them to forewear bachelorhood, and slipped on their seven trembling fingers seven engagement rings.

The seven young men hesitated, blushed, stammered, tried to look innocent and surprised, wondered what "papa and mamma" would say—and then showed their rings to each other.

It all began as a part of the unique entertainment given at the church. How it will end before the year is gone is entirely another question.

The young ladies who proposed were: Misses Jennie and Lillie Polson, Ethel Strohm, Daisy C. Bowen, Annie Pear, Sophronia Moore and Flora Tetze. The young men who coyly accepted were: F. B. Moore, Forman, John Wilcoxson, James Robertson, Robert Kress, W. Nugent and A. Miller.

TO FIX PARISH BOUNDARIES.
Father Clarke Will Take Census of Suburban Population.
Father Daniel W. Clarke of St. Teresa's Church, newly appointed rector of immaculate Conception parish, to be organized in Maplewood, Fillmore and Greenwood, will go to Maplewood at once to make a census of the Catholic population that the boundaries of the parish may be determined. Aside from the north boundary at Clayton road, they are still indefinite. The families to be included in immaculate Conception parish are those not in the St. James parish or the Holy Redeemer parish of Webster Groves.

Miss Esther Wulfe of 2717 Meramec street was the hostess at a Washington party. The game played was Washington. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand, J. F. Weipert, Misses Celeste Menotti, Helen Defors, Daisy Pecant, Eva Pecant, Blanche Luttrell, Tillie Wulfe, Clementine Mengotti, Corinne Mengotti, Messrs. R. Truman Hart, Harry McKenna, Charles O'Connor, Ted Peters, F. Weinert, William Mustash, Harry Butler.

New stocks, turnovers and sets received daily at Rosenheim's.

Miss Marie Lynch of 903 Suburban avenue gave a "bit party" and "Dutch supper" Thursday evening. The dining room was handsomely decorated with white carnations and ferns. Music and dancing also formed an amusement feature of the evening. Those present were: Misses Maud Johnson, May Klinger, Ella Norman, M. Lynch, Messrs. Frank Chapman, Joe Reis, James Colgan, George Davis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Handlan, B. Colgan, A. Lynch, Mrs. Caroline Colgan.

The newest colors in crush oze leather hats at Rosenheim's.

A surprise party was given in honor of Miss Fanny Berenice Hickman Thursday at her residence, 232 Adams street. The evening was spent in music and dancing. Among the guests were Misses Fanny B. Hickman, Sallie Bosely, Lillie Renolds, May Hartman, Mayne Walsh, Mary Rapp, Golden Carpenter, Emma Henry, Lida Henry, Margaret Cornly, Messrs. Thomas Henry, William Walsh, Edward Hartman, Charles Hickman, Charles Schaffer, E. Carpenter.

Have you seen Rosenheim's red and green window?

Miss Carrie Kell of 4165 Pace boulevard entertained a number of friends last Sunday evening in honor of her 18th birthday. Music and games were the feature of the evening. Among the guests were: Misses Emma Hasselblatt, Freda Koach, Emma Koach, Edna Dauterheim, Clara Koach, Lulu Koach, Bettie Dauterheim, Minnie Weiland, Helen Schuch, Edna Vhenel, Elizabeth Coon, Joie Kell, Marie Kell, Louise Kaiser, Mrs. Louise Schuch, Robert Meinhart, Otto Kell, John Gebach, Charles Williams, Edward Johnson, George Wilson, Julius Schirm, Herman Kasser, George Thomson, Arthur Brown.

The householder ventured a question, "But will that affect manufactured ice?" he asked.
Why, certainly," said the ice man, "if there is a smaller amount of manufactured ice; and if there is less manufactured ice, don't you understand, the supply of that commodity is reduced, and, by a question of the law of supply and demand."
"But think of what you save on labor and ammonia and sawdust when the manufacturer's supply is reduced?" ventured the householder.
We do," said the ice man.
And he said in a way that drove thoughts of gentle spring from the householder's mind and made him feel how stony was he in the presence of real greatness.
C. Muckerman, president of the Polar Wave Ice Co., confirms the statement of the ice man that there will be no reduction in the price of the frozen commodity this summer.
"Labor and feed have advanced greatly," he said, "and the cost of handling ice is considerably greater. This offset any reduction that might have resulted from the larger supply." The prices will remain about as they were last summer—40 cents a hundred in retail lots and $2.50 a ton on the track in wholesale lots.

POLICE GUARD FOR LABORERS AT FAIR

Men Who Will Take Strikers' Places
Enter Grounds Without Hostile Demonstration.

Under the escort and protection of five mounted police, 50 men were taken into the World's Fair grounds this morning and put at work. They replace the striking laborers on road, track grading and landscape work.

At 10 o'clock this number had applied for work, and it is expected that by the middle of the afternoon a considerably larger number will have applied for work, replacing the strikers, and that they would be given work.

There was no display of feeling on the part of the strikers when the new men were taken in.

Early in the morning the strikers held a mass meeting at which speeches were made and all strikers were urged to stay out until their pay had been advanced from 20 to 25 cents per hour—the contention which brought the strike. A circular has been issued calling on all union men employed in the grounds to aid them by striking. It is thought little attention will be paid to this, as the laborers have no organization.

Some dissatisfaction has already been noticed in the ranks of the strikers, and it is said to be not unlikely that many of them will soon ask to return to work.

National Quoit Schedule.

The National Quoit Association met last night and adopted rules and a schedule for the coming season. The schedule will open April 24 and close Sept. 23.

A LETTER AND WHAT CAME OF IT.

I enjoyed good health until about two years ago when I noticed my back began to ache frequently; it became sore and lame, and headache soon added to my misery; also found that my general health diminished. I became thin and weak and nervous, having severe pains at regular intervals.

writes Mrs. Augustus Emory, Treasurer New Century Club, 34 Dean Street (Roxbury), Boston, Mass. She continues: "My work which before had seemed an easy task soon seemed like a heavy burden. Having no faith in doctors I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which several of my friends praised so highly. I felt relief within a week, my appetite came back, the pains gradually decreased and I enjoyed sound sleep. Within fourteen weeks I had completely recovered my health. I seemed built up anew, my pulse, which had been weak became normal, and new life animated my entire being. I gladly endorse your medicine."

It is much easier for a woman to confide in the average man than in the average woman. She knows that the man will respect her confidences and keep them to himself, and not one woman in ten places implicit confidence in her own sex. There is every reason why women should not trust their delicate constitutions in the hands of unskilled persons. It requires a thorough medical education to appreciate and understand the womanly organism. When a woman has ill and pains that she cannot bear—when life seems dark for any woman, she should confide her troubles to a physician of standing in the community or one who has a national reputation. Certainly it would not be the part of wisdom to confide in an ignorant person without medical education simply because she was a woman. There is every reason why she should write some great specialist, one who has made the diseases of women a specialty for a third of a century like Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y. All correspondence is held sacredly confidential, and he gives his advice free and without charge.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health, by curing the local womanly diseases which are generally responsible for the failure of the general health. A woman's entire being is centered in her womanly nature. When the delicate womanly organism is attacked by disease, when there is irregularity or a disagreeable drain, when inflammation burns and ulcers gnaw the general health will reflect the progress of disease, in increasing weakness, nervousness, backache, headache, loss of appetite and sleeplessness.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures all these ailments, and cures them perfectly and permanently. It wipes out the record of suffering as a child, wipes a sum from a slate. It makes the woman feel like a new woman, and look like one, because it rounds out the form and restores the healthy color to the face.

So sure of it is the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that they offer a $500 reward for women who cannot be cured of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of womb. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

WORLD'S FREAKS IN PIKE BUILDING

Man Who Says He Sews and Sings
Soprano Better Than Woman
Wants to Exhibit Himself.

STOCKHOLDER SUGGESTS PLAN

Violin of Cow Horns, Tailless Cat,
Model of Ancient Puritan
Church Offered.

John T. Sitton, who describes himself as a "small stockholder," has suggested to the World's Fair the construction of a building on the Pike for the display of the "World's Freaks."

This building, should the suggestion be carried out, could be filled on short order, unless the building were larger than the Fair. Some suggestions from today's mail that would be available are:

FANCY WORK DONE BY J. A. Morgan, postmaster and storekeeper at Axin Mich., writes that he is 29 years old and for several years has employed his leisure time in making fancy work. He has a large supply on hand, which he would loan to demonstrate that a man can excel a woman in this work.

A REAL MADONNA, Mrs. C. Bartlett of Algiers, La., writes that she is quite certain that she owns one of the two real madonnas in existence, and she is willing to loan it for exhibition. It will cure any venomous bite, according to the owner.

A COWHORN VIOLIN, Louis A. Clark of St. Mary's, Ga., worked for nine months on the cow horn violin, in which he used cow's horns exclusively. He warrants the tone and is willing to loan the instrument.

CLAY AND ROOT BIRD NEST, Hastings W. Baker of Spartansburg, S. C., offers this treasure, a piece of root and roots are cemented together by the work of a bird, which is in the root, the nest is in good condition.

TAIL WITHIN A BALL, H. B. Lyon of Plainville, Ill., whittled this piece of work and now has it encased in a glass box. He will enter it for a prize. If President Franklin D. Roosevelt will let any one take it out of the case, both balls and root will be given to him. He never been out of the outside one, since the wood grew inside of the wood on the outside.

COMBINED ORGAN AND PIANO, This duplicate instrument is the property of Mrs. John Phillips of Springfield, Pa., who did not buy it when it was new. It is 98 years old, but makes the same kind of music it did many years ago.

SAVAGE MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS AND HEADS, Bessie W. Binnion of Ames, Ky., owns the collection, which also includes weapons of war. All specimens were secured from the south coast of the island of Mindanao by Mr. Binnion or someone else.

COW THAT NEVER HAD A TAIL, Sidney Smith of Little Current, Ontario, is willing to guarantee that the cow, now eight months old, was born without tail, or even a stub of a tail. He thinks she is a prize winner.

FIRST PURITAN MEETING HOUSE MODEL, Alfred P. Goodell of Salem, Mass., made the model and offers to come with it and deliver historical lectures. The model, he says, is absolutely complete in detail, even to pulpit, rafters, sounding board and fireplace, but lacking the fire.

PREHISTORIC INDIAN AND MAQUILLAU RELICS, Capt. Newton H. Bannister of Colton, Cal., is the owner of the collection offered. He says he is an explorer and the collection is very complete.

MAJOR AMOS STODDARD'S MANUSCRIPT AUTOBIOGRAPHY, Mrs. Elizabeth Stoddard Smith of Dayton, O., owns the manuscript, covering 80 pages, which she is willing to loan. Maj. Stoddard received the Upper Louisiana territory from Spain for France before the "Louisiana Purchase."

LOT'S WIFE TO LOOK BACK AT STATUE OF EVIL ONE.

Lot's wife, done in salt, Memphis, done in sulphur, and "Miss Louisiana," done in sugar, will be an interesting group of statues designed to show the varied results of the Louisiana Purchase. The first statue will be of Lot's wife, and the second of "Miss Louisiana," done in sugar.

World's Fair Lectures.

A course of lectures on the Louisiana Purchase Exposition will be given at the Union M. E. Church, corner of Garrison and Lucas avenues, under the auspices of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, on Friday evenings, during the month of March. The first lecture will be "Exhibit Features of the Exposition," by E. S. Hoch, assistant director of exhibits at the Fair, to be held March 4, at 8 p. m.

Lectures on Louisiana.

The first of three lectures by Rev. F. W. Manning, S. J., on "The Louisiana Purchase," will be delivered Wednesday night at Young Men's Social Hall, 111 North Grand avenue. The first lecture will treat of the territory under French domination.

MUST HUNT HARDER FOR HER HUSBAND

Nineteen-Year-Old Divorce Applicant Does Not Satisfy Court of His Disappearance.

Mrs. Mary Hollingsworth, who was a bride at 15 and is suing her husband for divorce at 19, did not get a decree in Judge Ryan's court Tuesday afternoon because the judge was not satisfied that she sufficiently diligent effort had been made to locate the husband.

She testified that her husband lived with her only about eight months altogether after their marriage at Lawrenceville, Ill. It appeared that the husband had been seen in St. Louis of late, and the judge thought it was possible to find him. He laid the case over for a week for this purpose.

CIGARETTES MADE HIM INSANE

Excessive use of cigarettes resulted in the mental undoing of Roy H. Mosely of East St. Louis, 21 years of age, who was Tuesday ordered by Judge Hay in the County Court at Belleville to the state insane asylum at Anna.

The examining physicians found the young man to be suffering with acute dementia. His mother stated that his affliction had resulted rather suddenly since an absence of four days in his home, and stated that he had used cigarettes to excess.

He had grown violent and attempted to kill his mother, but was docile enough in court. The young man was a clerk in the Vandalia railroad office, East St. Louis, till two weeks ago.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedial and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.
